

I have attended several conferences, have successfully networked and found it little to no use in advancing my scientific knowledge (of course career advance is possible if we could impress hiring authority). As this is an optional home work for me, I am not going to write anything more or any specific experience here.